Most people remember what the rich kin do but the doings of the poor go unnoticed.

When a young man gets to going too fast, he finds that the bread-drums are greasy and slowing up in bad.

As eleven men are to be hanged in Arizona, it would appear that they have quit hanging them out there until convicted in the courts.

This country is more economical than ever. It doesn't send the crowds to the circus that one would expect.

We would like to know how the European war would have been coming on now had the war lords allowed the war correspondents to run it.

Some wholesale man said the other day that there was no excuse for one's taking bankruptcy proceedings these times. If they cannot pay, they can do the best they can and let the creditors know it.

Belgium, which has been run over and tramped under foot for more than a year, should pull up and move to the United States. We would make room for her people right here in Alabama. They are not used to much territory, and the little country seems to be about the size of three Wiregrass counties.

BENEFITS OF GAME CONSERVATION.

Bavannah News.

Reports from many hunters in Georgia forests and fields are that game is abundant, which shows that game laws pay when they are enforced.

Game multiplies unless it is ruthlessly thinned out by man. It may be that most hunters pay more in time, labor and cost of guns, ammunition and hunting licenses than the game they bag is worth, and hence the high cost of living may not be cut down so far as they are concerned by the abundance of the game, but that does not make it any less gratifying that the little wild things of the fields and woods are becoming more numerous, instead of being threatened with extinction as some of them were only a few years ago.

And now that it has been shown that game conservation gets good results, Georgia should turn its attention to the silent oyster, which is not getting the protection it ought to have. Crop diversity in this state should mean the producing of one of each of the lesser crops of the South, and certainly the oyster

MAKING JAILS HAPPY HOMES.

One useless office that should be abolished is the one held by Dr. Oates, State Jail Inspector. Many people do not know that throughout Alabama we are paying two or three men to do the same work Dr. Oates is doing. Why pay city and county health officers for this work and then pay Dr. Oates, too? It is ridiculous. This is the first office that should be abolished.—Andalusia Star.

None of the other officers have ever done any of the work done by Dr. Oates, and to abolish his office his office would more than likely put the jails in the miserable condition they were in under the old regime.—Montgomery Times.

We are glad that none of the other officers have done any of the work done by Dr. Oates.

When such an office was created, giving with it the official power Dr. Oates has, it was a calamity. Not that anything serious has come of it so far.

He can do more than the county and city health officers do only because the law gives him more power, but it is a dangerous power to put into one man's hands. Can you build a jail in Alabama without Dr. Oates o.-k.'s the plans?

Jefferson county, for instance, wanted a handsome jail, right in the heart of the city to show the visitors, and it was to have been an expensive building. Could it be handled without seeing Dr. Oates?

Dr. Oates has probably held the job down about like the average man would, but the idea of spending money for three men to do the work one could do, is preposterous. In fact, there is a sentiment to abolish the job, and when it is done, Alabama will go on just as it did before such an office was ever created, and prisoners will have about the same measure of health and enjoyment.

Certainly prisoners should be kept comfortable and sanitary, but we doubt not the ability of the various county health officers and city health officers to keep them so.

One's surroundings while in jail, just because he has been charged with crime, doesn't entitle him to better treatment than he would get as a free man at home.

Dr. Oates has naturally let the people hear from his job. Otherwise the public might not know that he was earning his salary, so it's but natural for him to tear down an old jail and build a new one here and turn the hose and carbolic acid and formaldehyde on another one there. It makes good reading for the local folks and is evidence that the jail inspector knows what's what, and is on his job.

Jails should not be too tempting.

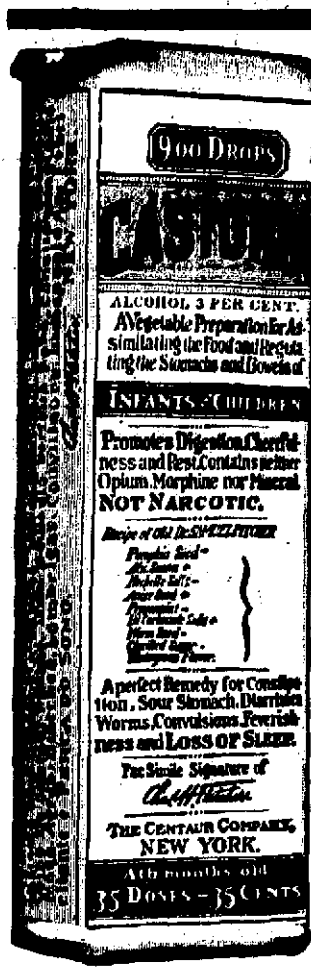

KILLING THE SCENT.

The Dothan Eagle man draws the line on chitterlings, as he does not like the smell. We confess that in the crude state, they do not smell very inviting, but our cooks up here wash and rinse them thoroughly before putting them in the boiling pot.—Montgomery Times.

Most cruel contemporary! And do your cooks up there use formaldehyde or coal tar in the killing of the scent? Or is it the scent that is inviting?

Ex-Boss Croker has at last met his match and married her. She was a Cherokee Indian princess, according to the news item, which is not always strictly correct when transmitting society doings over the wire. Croker, it is said, was 73 years old, and his bride is 23.

ON UPGRADE, SAYS INDUSTRIAL INDEX

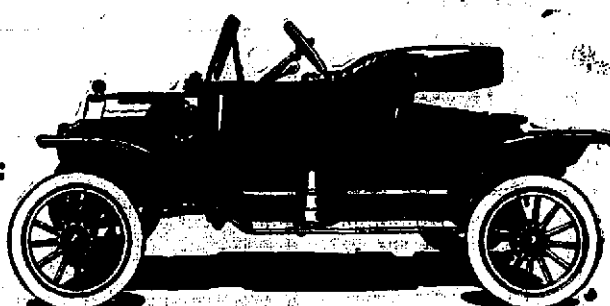

Columbus, Ga., Nov. 27.—The Industrial Index says:

The last month of the year gives distinct promise of coming under the wire a business winner, bringing this section and the whole country to the beginning of a period of the greatest prosperity it has ever known.

Confidence, the institution of the regional banks with millions in their vaults, the opening of the cotton exchanges, the upward trend of the price of cotton, the completion of the $135,000,000 cotton loan plan, the resumption of the making of large loans at low rates on real estate of similar securities for improvement purposes, the reception of goods—and growing—of American and products are being received everywhere and products the increasing every week in this country from activities in manufacturing circles—abroad. RELIGIOUS REALM

LESSON TEXT.

And they bring him unto the Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, The place of a skull.

And they gave him to drink mingled with myrrh; but he refused it not.

And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting upon them, what every man would take.

And it was the third hour, they crucified him.

And the superscription of the accusation was written over, KING OF THE JEWS.

And with him they crucified thieves; the one on his right, and the other on his left.

And the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, And he was numbered with the transgressors.

And they that passed by raised him, wagging their heads, and saying, Ah, thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days,

Save thyself, and come down from the cross.

Likewise also the chief priests mocking said among themselves with the scribes, He saved others; himself he cannot save.

Let Christ the King of Israel descend now from the cross, that he may see and believe. And they were crucified with him reviled.

And when the sixth hour came, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour.

And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani? which is interpreted, My God, my God, hast thou forsaken me?

And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias.

36. And one ran and filled a sponge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink, saying, Let alone; let us see whether Elias will come to take him down.

37. And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost.

EUROPEAN WAR SHATTERS KING COTTON'S THRONE

FLEECY STAPLE MUST PAY RANSOM INTO THE COFFERS OF WAR.

Nation Rings With Cries of Stricken Industry.

By Peter Radford.
Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

King Cotton has suffered more from the European war than any other agricultural product on the American continent. The shells of the belligerents have burst over his throne, frightening his subjects and shattering his markets, and, panic-stricken, the nation cries out "God save the king."

People from every walk of life have contributed their mite toward rescue work. Society has danced before the king; milady has decreed that the family wardrobe shall contain only cotton goods; the press has pleaded with the public to "buy a bale"; bankers have been formulating holding plans; congress and legislative bodies have deliberated over relief measures; statesmen and writers have grown eloquent expounding the inalienable rights of "His Majesty" and presenting schemes for preserving the financial integrity of the stricken staple, but the sword of Europe has proved mightier than the pen of America in fixing value upon this product of the sunny south.

Prices have been bayoneted, values riddled and markets decimated by the battling hosts of the eastern hemisphere until the American farmer has suffered a war loss of $400,000,000, and a bale of cotton brave enough to enter an European port must pay a ransom of half its value or go to prison until the war is over.

Hope of the Future Lies in Co-operation.

The Farmers' Union, through the columns of the press, wants to thank the American people for the friendship, sympathy and assistance given the cotton farmers in the hour of distress and to direct attention to co-operative methods necessary to permanently assist the marketing of all farm products.

The present emergency presents as grave a situation as ever confronted the American farmer and from the viewpoint of the producer, would seem to justify extraordinary relief measures, even to the point of bending the constitution and straining business rules in order to lift a portion of the burden off the backs of the farmer, for unless something is done to check the invasion of the war forces upon the cotton fields, the pathway of the European pestilence on this continent will be strewn with mortgaged homes and famine and poverty will stalk over the southland, filling the highways of industry with refugees and the bankruptcy court with prisoners.

All calamities teach us lessons and the present crisis serves to illuminate the frailties of our marketing methods and the weakness of our credit system, and out of the financial anguish and travail of the cotton farmer will come a volume of discussion and a mass of suggestions and finally a solution of this, the biggest problem in the economic life of America, if, indeed, we have not already laid the foundation for at least temporary relief.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW

IN OREGON ATTACKED

Washington, November 27.—Briefs in the case brought by Frank C. Mettler, a Portland, Ore., manufacturer, to have declared unconstitutional the Oregon compulsory minimum wage law for women were filed today in the supreme court.

The briefs urge that such legislation is beyond the power of a state; is unsupported by public opinion; would be destructive of business and increase the cost of living.

Mr. Phillips had Stomach Trouble for More than Five Years.

Mr. W. R. Phillips, Jr., 133 Moreland Ave., Atlanta, Georgia, writes: "I had the catarrh and stomach trouble for more than five years, and I faithfully tried all the medicines I saw advertised, and found they all failed to cure me. I then heard of Peruna. I purchased six bottles, and after their use I soon discovered that I was well, safe and sound. I now weigh two hundred and ten pounds, and have never been sick since I took Peruna. It surely is the best medicine for colds, stomach trouble and catarrh that I ever heard of."

DRESSES

This has been an unusual Dress season. The styles are so different from the last few seasons. They are very attractive, and indeed but admit that they are more beautiful than several seasons past.

The satins and other of high lustre make more prettily than any silks and, too, the combinations of satin and wool in the costumes more than lovely. We offer some values in the season's best dresses.

We have one big lot of silk and wool dresses for you at a bargain. These are this season's styles and you will get a lot of wear out of them. You take your choice for—

All other satin, crepe, chine and combination dresses as follows:

$15.00 Dresses for$11.95
$19.50 Dresses for$14.95
$25.00 Dresses for$19.95
$29.00 Dresses for$24.95
